

'Random' project

A graphics exhibition based on random words cut from back issues of Time Out. These people clearly have taste. This is what they said about us: 'Why Time Out? Because it's a magazine that reflects London – from the everyday reality of living and travelling in the city to the eclectic and cultural flotsam it offers. This emanates through every level of the publication; if individual words are taken out of context they still combine to form a lexicon that is peculiarly "London".'

'Random' at Wagdas Gallery, unit 32, 210 Cambridge Heath Rd, E2 (www.random-project.co.uk) Bethnal Green tube. Exhibition Sept 15-30. Adm free.
